Manzanar, Diverted: When Water Becomes Dust

Manzanar Japanese American Concentration Camp:
Reframing the Experience 80 years after WWII

Speaker: Ann Kaneko (Los Angeles, USA)
Commentary (Jpn) : Yasuko Takezawa (KGU)

During WWII, Japanese Americans on the West Coast were incarcerated in camps behind barbed wires. Manzanar was one of those concentration camps. In this event, we will reconsider the experiences of Japanese Americans at Manzanar during WWII and at the same time how the site has transformed into a space for building inter-ethnic alliances between Japanese Americans, Native Americans, and local ranchers to protect their land and water.
