

ADMISSION POLICY

College of Foreign Studies School of English Language and Communication

In order to cultivate individuals as described in the educational goals and in compliance with the diploma and curriculum policies, the School seeks students with the following qualifications:

Students who have developed, through studies in high school, logical communication ability and a solid foundation, particularly in listening, speaking, reading and writing skills in English. Specifically:

1. Students who have acquired fundamental knowledge and skills through education in high school and are highly motivated.
2. Students who are keenly interested in pursuing an international career by improving practical English skills and to seek areas of expertise in English.